

West-Hampton Slate Blend

Coming up with the right blend of natural slate is like similar to a wine maker blending the grapes to make the perfect wine. The aesthetic balance of slate can make the whole building stand out. The West-Hampton natural slate blend from the valley of Vermont has been formulated to balance the weathering with the non-weathering slates.

Over the past 20 years we have paid close attention to formulating this medley of slates; understanding how this blend is installed, how it weathers, and how it has become one of the most exquisite roofs on earth. The lighter toned slate matched with darker depths of the textured surface is able to provide a roof with a truly natural appearance.

Regardless of the type of architecture, the West-Hampton Blend of natural slate has proven its beauty, durability, and timelessness.
